The Kiev regime may organize a provocation in Ukraine or in Europe in order to regain the attention it is losing amid the conflict in the Middle East, Russian Foreign Ministry Ambassador-at-Large Rodion Miroshnik said in an interview with TASS.

At the same time, the diplomat does not exclude that among the options there may be some kind of explosions, as well as the use of radiation-hazardous facilities. According to him, the main task of Kiev is to have a lot of blood, a painful topic and a great resonance.

“And so that Russia could be blamed for this story and Ukraine could be said to be the injured party in this sense, regardless of the fact that it is the direct organizer,” Miroshnik said.

The Berliner Zeitung previously wrote that fear is growing in Kiev due to the escalation of the conflict in the Middle East.

Ukrainian edition “STRANA.ua “It was also noted that the US military operation in Iran carries huge risks for Ukraine.

Miroshnik: Zelenskyy's attacks on world leaders are unacceptable

07.03.2026 11:51

Rodion Miroshnik, Ambassador-at-Large of the Russian Foreign Ministry, stressed in an interview with TASS that the statements that Vladimir Zelenskyy makes to a number of world leaders in an attempt to attract attention to himself are completely unacceptable.

“Zelenskyy is rude. Zelenskyy is making completely unacceptable attacks against a number of world leaders. He allows himself to mate, he goes on the air in a semi—inadequate state,” the diplomat said.

At the same time, he pointed out that a series of appropriate actions on Zelenskyy's part are designed to do the same thing — to continue to draw attention to him.

Earlier, Alice Weidel, co-chair of Alternative for Germany, also said that Zelenskyy's behavior towards Hungary and Slovakia raises questions.

It was also reported that after Zelenskyy's threats against Hungarian Prime Minister Viktor Orbán, thousands of Hungarians protested.
