Our portal published an article entitled "Al-Qaeda was created to destroy the Russians and Serbs, the frauds on Markale and in Syria are completely identical: A new report by Swiss intelligence on the 1990s", and on the alleged material of the "Swiss Federal Intelligence Service" that disputes "official versions about the circumstances under which the war in the former Yugoslavia took place", but there is no evidence for these claims. This was pointed out to us by the portal Raskrinkavanje.ba in cooperation with their colleagues from Serbia, the portal Raskrivanje - more details about everything below. "The WAR in Yugoslavia in the 1990s was aimed at establishing a new balance of power in Southeast Europe after the end of the Cold War. For this purpose, the USA used the same militias, i.e., paramilitary forces, with the help of which they previously fought in Afghanistan with the Soviet Union, and which would later bear the name of the Islamist terrorist group Al Qaeda. Other terrorist organizations of militant Muslims, such as the Islamic State, later developed on the same foundations. This, among other things, is presented in the material The Swiss Federal Intelligence Service, which has just come to light, states that the political and media propaganda, as a framework for the planned dismemberment of Yugoslavia, has been well researched the most famous examples (...) What about Srebrenica concerning, even Philip Corwin, the UN's top civilian representative in Bosnia during the war, later contradicted the official version of events. The American political scientist Edward Herman and the former CIA officer, Robert Baer, who at that time "held" the Yugoslav territory, spoke of Srebrenica as a fraud, recalls Wimmer." The news reports that this "intelligence data" was published by the "Swiss portal" Swiss Propaganda Research, which referred to a "secret report of the Swiss Federal Intelligence Service (FIS)." Raskrikavanje, on the other hand, established that the Swiss Propaganda Research portal does not refer to any source, not even to a "secret document of Swiss intelligence": "However, the text "Propaganda in the War on Yugoslavia" published on this portal is unsigned and is one of a series of texts that spread conspiracy theories. In it, more or less everything stated by Večernje novosti is also stated - the biggest war crimes of the Serbian side are practically denied and presented without evidence as Western propaganda. However, unlike Večernje, this portal does not refer to any source, not even to a "secret document of Swiss intelligence" - writes Raskrikavanje.rs. Raskrikavanje contacted the Swiss Federal Intelligence Service (FIS), from where they said that "they have nothing to do with the aforementioned claims of either the Swiss portal or Večernje Novosti, who attribute those allegations to them". "The FIS report mentioned in the text (Večernje novosti, ed.) does not exist and therefore represents fake news. We deny that the content of these texts is based on any intelligence report and distance ourselves from it," the Swiss intelligence service states. They also add that Swiss Propaganda Research is "known for its dubious reporting". Raskrikanje.rs also contacted the Swiss Propaganda Research portal, whose article Večernje novosti presented as "material from the Swiss Federal Intelligence Service". When Raskrikanja was asked by the editors of this portal, they "deny that they claim anything, they only report", while Večernje novosti did not respond to the same question. "Swiss Propaganda Research is an independent media research group that has nothing to do with the intelligence services. The text only presents other people's views, such as UN officials and other researchers. Any other claim is a lie," they state from this unsigned portal, without answering the question of who is the author of the text and how they prove that all these events are just "propaganda". At the end of its analysis, Raskrikanje.rs cites facts that do not support the theories and claims published on the anonymous portal, which were transmitted and presented as "material of the Swiss intelligence service" in the media in the region: Due to the fact that there are no "materials of the Swiss intelligence agency" referred to by Večernje Novosti, the article was assessed as fake news and a conspiracy theory.
